PRESIDENT MEETS ENGLISH NOTABLES AT LUNCH

PREMIER ENTERTAINS FOR WILSON

Lloyd George Invites Leaders in Old and New Governments to Luncheon

CROWDS ENTHUSIASTIC

"We Want Wilson" is Shout of Wounded Soldiers in Palace Yard

(By the Associated Press)

PARIS—Pres. Wilson's program after his return to Paris on New Year's day has been revised. It now provides that he will leave for Italy 21 hours after returning to Paris as there will be an interval between his return from England and the preliminaries to the inter-allied conference.

(By the Associated Press)

LONDON — Premier Lloyd George, accompanied by Sir Maurice Hankey, secretary to the committee on imperial defense, arrived at Buckingham palace at 10:30 o'clock this morning for a conference with Pres. Wilson. The day was dark and rainy but a big crowd gathered before the palace before the premier made his appearance.

Mr. Wilson was astir early this morning and was busy with his secretary. There were a number of American callers and the Duke of Connaught and Sir Richard Horsch-all visited the palace before the arrival of the premier. A. J. Balfort, secretary of state for foreign affairs, walked over rom the foreign office to attend the conference between Mr. Lloyd George and the president.

Lloyd George Gives Luncheon

The company invited to meet Pres. Wilson at the luncheon arranged to be held today at Premier Lloyd George's residence comprised a small gathering of elder statesmen, the personnel including the leaders in the last and the present government and the heads of three of the political parties, conservative, liberal and labor.

Confers All Morning.

The president's conference with Premier Lloyd George and Foreign Secretary Balfor lasted until close upon one o'clock when the conferees left in separate motor cars for the premier's residence in Downing street.

Pres. Wilson was accompanied by Secretary Tumulty, the king's equerry, who preceded at a slow pace and was recently cheered along the route to the official residence of the premier.

Mr. Wilson's conferences today with the statesmen are described in official quarters as having been satisfactory.

The chief discussion was a general one, the president continued conversations with the British statesmen of the luncheon in Downing street and later resumed them at Buckingham palace. It was stated that a great deal of progress was made in making clear some things to the president's points of view, principally as regards the question of British naval supremacy.

Discussions Intimate.

At Buckingham palace before the arrival of Pres. Wilson, the prime minister and the foreign secretary met in one of the rooms of the president's suite before a cheerful, open fire with no secretaries or documents to lend any air of formality to the discussion. It was an entirely informal conference, intended to develop the most intimate aspects of the situation.

The president did a great deal of the talking and it was said afterward that nothing developed to show that any substantial difference in principal or in fundamentals existed.

PAUL MOSELEY SUCCUMBS TO PNEUMONIA

Graduate of M. H. S. in 1902 and Well Known Athlete Dies

Paul W. Moseley, graduate of the Madison High school in 1902 and well known in Madison for many years as salesman for the Pillsbury Flour company, died Thursday night with pneumonia following an attack of influenza. He had been sick for about a week. The deceased is survived by his wife and two children, Paul, aged 2, and Janet, aged 9 months; and by his mother, Mrs. W. H. Moseley, 1714 Adams street. Wayne T. Moseley, a lawyer, Cando, N. D., and Raymond T. Moseley, Seattle, Wash., are brothers.

Paul Moseley was well known as an athlete on the football teams of Madison high school. He was a member of the local chapter of the Elks and of the Madison Gun club. Mr. Moseley has been married four years and he recently celebrated his 37th birthday.

CUPID

Matrimonial Arbiter Loses Pep in County This Year; Special Dispensations Popular.

Cupid—that crafty little arbiter in affairs matrimonial—is losing some of his old time pep in Dane county, if the latest available marriage statistics for the year disclose the situation. Although there has been one-third less marriages in the county this year than last, there has been a big increase in the number of special dispensations granted to soldiers.

Last year wedded life was agreed to by 628 Dane county couples. This year, up to Dec. 27, only 408 couples have tied the knot. Sixty-five special dispensations have been granted this year to soldiers. A special dispensation is required of all who wish to marry within the five days prescribed by law. Many Madison soldiers home on furloughs have asked the court for such dispensations. During 1917 less than half this number of dispensations were granted.

It is thought that one of the biggest factors in this year's slump in marriages was due to the new law that became operative Jan. 1 of last year requiring a five days' notice before issuing the marriage license.

OLD WOODEN BRIDGE IS NOW THING OF PAST

Work Started on New Concrete Structure Over Starkweather Creek

The old wooden bridge that for so many years spanned the Starkweather creek on Milwaukee street, is a shaky memory of the past. The old bridge was pulled down to make room for a new reinforced concrete structure. Workmen started this morning laying the foundation for the new $4,500 bridge.

Acting City Engineer T. F. Harrington announced that traffic on Milwaukee street between Madison and Blooming Grove will have to be suspended during the construction of the new bridge. Milwaukee street has been closed.

When the old bridge was torn down it was found that the old timbers were so badly rotted that the material was practically worthless. The building operations will be continued in spite of the winter weather, Mr. Harrington declared. The old bridge was not safe for traffic, and as Milwaukee street is the main artery of travel between Blooming Grove and Madison, all possible speed will be made in erecting the new bridge.

The town of Blooming Grove is to bear one third the expense, while Madison will shoulder the rest of the bill. The contract was awarded to J. P. Icke.

The will of Capt. Starr Eaton, who recently died in France, was admitted in probate Thursday in county court. A bequest of $500 to the Wesley foundation, $5,000 and personal property to his wife, insurance policies to his mother, bequests of $500 each to his two sisters, Helen O. and Dorothy L., and $100 to his brother, Howard C., include the specific bequests in the will.

E. L. Eaton, father of Capt. Eaton, is named as testator. A piece of land is also deeded to his father.

BEEKEEPERS ORGANIZE IN DANE COUNTY

Meet Today at University; H. L. McMurray Addresses Conference

A resolution was adopted at the afternoon session asking the Dane county representatives to the legislature to stand behind a bill that is to be introduced which will make possible the systematic inspection of bees.

The following officers were elected: president, L. W. Parman, Madison; vice-president, Otto Kerl, Black Earth; and secretary-treasurer, Dr. Robert Siebecker, Madison.

A new activity is organizing today in Dane county to be known as the Dane County Beekeepers' association. The meeting began at 10 o'clock this morning with a talk in the entymology building at the University by H. L. McMurray, extension agent for the United States department of agriculture. The afternoon session elected officers and transacted business incident to organization.

Plans were laid at the afternoon meeting for a large outdoor conference next summer on the banks of Lake Monona. Several prominent authorities on the subject will address the conference. The local society also voted to affiliate with the Wisconsin Beekeepers' association.

Prof. H. F. Wilson, entymologist, declares that there are two big problems today confronting beekeepers—the elimination of foul brood (a bee malady) and the necessity of studying the winter care of bees.

ANOTHER ORPHAN DRIVE TO BE JAN. 3

Tuesday's Snow Storm Interfered With First Campaign; $200 Netted

Because of the snow storm which swept Madison Tuesday, the campaign to raise funds for the Fatherless Children of France netted only $200. Numerous refusals from all sides have led those in charge to name Jan. 3, one week from Saturday, as the day on which to hold another campaign.

Mrs. E. B. Steensland and Mrs. Edward H. Smith, who are in charge of the coming campaign, hope to raise funds enough to support 50 French orphans with the aid of about 50 high school girls who will act as taggers on the square, on King and State streets, and at the railroad stations. No house to house canvass will be made.

BRITISH TO FIGHT RED FLAGONSHIPS

Admiralty to be Drastic vs. Bolshevism in German Fleet

(By the Associated Press)

AMSTERDAM—The British admiralty is prepared to take drastic measures against the propagation of Bolshevism in that part of the German fleet remaining in German hands, according to a Berlin dispatch today. The sinking of vessels displaying the red flag and the execution of crews infected with Bolshevism are threatened, it is declared.

The text of the order attributed to the British admiralty reads:

"Vessels under the red flag will be sunk without warning. Vessels without officers will be dealt with in accordance with the laws of war. If a single man is caught propagating Bolshevik ideas the entire crew of the vessels in question will be shot.

PHILIPP TAKES HAND IN STREET CAR TROUBLES

Confers With Railroad Commission on Milwaukee Employes' Demands

Gov. E. L. Philipp took a hand in the Milwaukee street car situation today. The employes of the company are seeking an increase of wages from 39 to 42 cents, and threaten a walkout on Jan. 1, unless their demands are complied with.

"I had a conference with the members of the railroad commission today on the matter," said Gov. E. L. Philipp this afternoon. "I will have a meeting with the employes of the company at Milwaukee on Monday. Further than that I have no information to make public."

In Milwaukee it is claimed that the increase in wages will amount to $650,000 annually, but official records indicate that it would be a much smaller sum.

STORIES SPOILED

Kaiser and Hindenburg Sought Shelter When Danger Came.

(By the Associated Press)

SPA, Belgium (Dec. 16)—The former headquarters of the kaiser and his general staff is disclosing extraordinary queer facts about the men who engineered the world war. Take for one, Hindenburg, Germany's super-man, around whom reams of poetry have been written disclosing him as a fearless Napoleon leading his troops to victory. As a matter of fact, he spent a great deal of time in a wonderfully constructed "funk hole" or dugout underneath the grounds of his villa here. Spa, it may be noted, is almost on the German border and so far from where battle lines used to be that it was almost a day's journey in a fast motor car to get within sound of the big guns.

The kaiser, too, had a similar hiding place at Neubois, near a comic opera trench system about which he is said to have paraded for the benefit of motion pictures. At each of their villas there were delicate electrical instruments which would set up furious buzzing whenever an airplane approached anywhere near. At the first sound from this contrivance Hindenburg and the kaiser used to run to shelter, it is reported. People who worked about Hindenburg's establishment said he was continually running for cover.

Yanks Now in Dugout

America's representatives on the international armistice commission are now occupying Hindenburg's headquarters and they were amazed when they discovered this underground refuge of the great warrior. The entrance was through the dining room. Thence a flight of steps led down to a tiled ante-room which by the way now serves as a pantry for the Americans.

From the tiled room there was another flight of steps that led down to the real dugout. This was blocked by a huge iron door about one inch in thickness which could be locked from the inside only. Within it was fastened by a double bolt which would do credit to an American banking establishment.

Luxuriously Equipped

The dugout itself was luxuriously equipped. On the floor was a heavy flowered carpet and a Louis XV table and chairs added to the artistic arrangement. The walls which were of corrugated iron were painted white and the whole place brilliantly illuminated by electricity. On a table was an electric fan while an electric stove provided heat in winter. The room was about 14 by 12 feet and was protected by four to six feet of earth above it.

The emperor's dugout was similar except that it was much deeper under ground and there were two entrances, one through the villa and the other from the grounds. The main entrance was from the house and led down a long flight of steps. Another touch to the picture was added today when a German resident of Aix La Chapelle told the correspondent of the Associated Press that the crown prince spent virtually all of his time in amusement.

CITY BUILDING RECORDS SHOW SERIOUS SLUMP

Dean Issues 180 New Permits; Non-War Construction Order Cause

Building operations in Madison for the past year have taken a serious slump, according to the latest available records at the office of Philip Dean, city commissioner of building.

During 1917 a total of 180 new structures were put up and in addition 37 permits were issued for repairs, alterations and additions, making a total for the year of 217 permits issued for the year. The current year records but 132 building operations in the city.

The war with its resultant non-war construction and conservation in the use of building materials is probably responsible for the falling off in this year's figures.

CZAR AND HIS FAMILY LIVE, IS REPORT

Are in Neutral Country; Whereabouts Known by Ally, Says Russian

WARSAW (Tuesday)— "There is no doubt that the Czar and his entire family are alive. I am positive of this," was the declaration made to the correspondent today by Michael De Tchihatchef, a nephew of General Skoropadski, and who has just escaped from the Ukraine after a recent trip to Petrograd, Dvinsk, Vilna and Rovno.

"I cannot reveal where the Czar is because he does not wish it," he added. "He does not care to be bothered and he wants to be left alone.

"His whereabouts are known to an allied government. It is in a neutral country. Accounts of his murder at Ekaterinburg were manufactured by Trotsky and Lenine for propaganda purposes."

"It took much money and time and also the lives of many officers to accomplish his escape. Among the officers killed was Count Tatichev, the Czar's former personal military attache, who was shot instead of the Czar. Documents describing the Czar's escape were in the hands of German Consul Kceniz at Petrograd who forwarded them to Berlin."

M. De Tchihatchef said that the allies should send an army of occupation into Russia to re-establish a stable government and business conditions. He said the cost of living gin Russia was appalling, a pound of butter costing 120 rubles and a pair of trousers 1,000 rubles. Frequently there was no food obtainable at any price.

Eleventh Hour Agreement Saves City From Extremist Christmas

BULLETIN

(By the Associated Press)

PARIS—(4:25 a. m.)—Rumors that the former Emperor of Germany has been assassinated became current in Paris, notably in the chamber of deputies, last evening. There is not the slightest confirmation of the report up to the present.

BERLIN — (Wednesday) — An eleventh hour compromise with the revolting sailors by the Ebert-Schiedemann section of the government apparently saved Berlin from an extremist Christmas. (Later reports from Berlin are that the Spartacus faction is still the cause of trouble.) The sailors gained more than they sought and will remain in Berlin as part of the republican soldiers' guard.

SINN FEIN WILL NOT TAKE SEATS IN PARLIAMENT

Believed to Have Won Majority of Irish Members

(By the Associated Press)

DUBLIN—The Sinn Fein victory over the nationalists in the recent parliamentary elections exceeded the highest hopes of the Sinn Feiners. It is believed that when the final count is made, Dec. 28, the Sinn Feiners will have won a majority of the Irish seats.

The Sinn Feiners elected will not take their seats. They will forfeit the $750 which they had to post as an election fee.

Complete Separation Asked

Their immediate purpose, according to one of their most prominent leaders, is to convoke the Irish nationalist assembly early in January. The assembly would draft a national constitution for Ireland, which would be laid before a conference of all nations. Complete separation and a republic wholly independent of Great Britain are boldly claimed by some Sinn Feiners.

Meanwhile the government in Ireland is concerned mostly with the problem of the reconstruction of industry. Viscount French, the lord lieutenant, and the secretary for Ireland, Mr. Shortt, are in accord with this movement, which may be affected adversely by the absence of fresh members from parliament if the Sinn Feiners carry out their threat.

Little Fight by Nationalists

The Nationalists made a weak fight in many districts and failed entirely to contest such moderate constituencies as Carlow. The Sinn Fein leaders made valuable political use of the continued imprisonment of their leaders on charge of complicity in a German plot. Many of the interned Sinn Fein were nominated for parliament. The nationalists helped this by repudiating the suggestion of a German plot.

In Ulster Cardinal Logue was a leader in organizing opposition to the followers of Sir Edward Carson. With Catholic bishops and others he allotted the eight doubtful seats in Ulster equally between the Sinn Feiners and the Nationalists and called upon the supporters of each party to vote against the Carsonites.

Get Ulster Support

Cardinal Logue who has condemned the Sinn Fein policy as "foolish and disastrous," announced his intention to vote for the Sinn Fein candidate. This was another bomb in the ranks of the nationalists, who were weakened further by the support given the Sinn Fein by Archbishop Walsh of Dublin, Bishop Fogarty of Killaloe, Bishop Hallinan of Limrick and Bishop Cohalan of Cork.

Appeals to America played a great part in the contest on both sides. The nationalist leaders recalled that the Sinn Feiners had insulted the American flag and supported Germany. The Sinn Feiners minimized the reports of insults and repudiated the allegations of pro-Germanism by claiming they were only pro-Irish.

EUROPEANS WANT YANK SUB CHASERS

Boats Being Sent for Inspection; Not Anxious to Sell, Says Daniels

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Several European countries have expressed a wish to purchase some of the American submarine chasers now in European waters. Secy. Daniels said today the boats were being sent to various ports in order that they might be inspected and while the navy department was not particularly anxious to sell them, it would be willing to dispose of quite a number.

In connection with reports from Copenhagen that an American fleet would shortly arrive there, Sec. Daniels said today the scout cruiser Chester and a few submarine chasers had been ordered to Copenhagen merely as a visit of courtesy.

BRISBANE SAID TO HAVE MONEY IN LEADER

Owned 1,000 Shares in Berger Paper Until Recently, Says Rehfeld

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO — Testimony dealing with the financial affairs of the Milwaukee Leader, the socialist daily of which Victor L. Berger is editor, was given today at the trial of the five socialists charged with conspiracy to violate the espionage law.

Frederick Rehfeld, secretary and business manager of the paper, testified that Arthur Brisbane owned 1,000 shares in the paper until four or five months ago when he sold his interests after he decided to buy an afternoon paper of his own in Milwaukee. The witness said the Albert Brisbane fund also owned 1,000 shares of stock in the paper.

Rehfeld denied that the paper had ever received any financial aid from brewers of any pro-German organization. He said the barring of the paper from the mails in October, 1917, had resulted in a loss of $200,000. He said when the list of out of town subscribers was seized by the government, the paper used the mailing list of the American Socialist.

The Milwaukee Leader, he said, was capitalized for $100,000 and owned by 12,000 socialist stockholders. The witness said the paper printed every Red Cross, liberty bond, war savings stamp and other war advertisements offered for its publication. Employes of the paper purchased $750 worth of liberty bonds and $1,100 worth of war savings stamps. The witness said the largest stockholders were the Milwaukee socialist county cental committee, the Sheffield agency, and that is Victor L. Berger. Among the large bondholders of the paper the witness mentioned the International Brewery Workers' union and the International Association of Machinists.

AT THE THEATRES

ORPHEUM

The clever vaudeville hits and dance novelties appearing at the Orpheum this week afford an entertainment of truly superior quality. "The Laugh Trust" presented by Murphy and Lachmar is a bit of intensive vaudeville that keeps the house in a continuous laugh. The same tribute can be paid Colley and Jaxon in their "syllyisms." The sillyisms perhaps become a shade heavy at times, but the artists themselves save the act. "The Ultra Humorist" is a ventriloquist composition in which Valentino Fox is easily a star. Kenny and Rhea in their artistic dancing are pleasing. "On the Veranda" is a musical and satirical sketch in which the permanent freshman at college is a conspicuous figure. The allies' official war pictures are among the best features on the program.

STRAND.

Dorothy Gish bemoans the fact that she never has any narrow escapes. She feels that her life is lived in vain.

In "The Hope Chest," the picture in which she will appear at the New Strand theater today and tomorrow, she has an accident at the opening of the picture. She spills the milk. It has lots to do with the story, too, which is a film version of the novel by Mark Lee Luther.

Richard Barthelmess, long in the support of Marguerite Clark, appears as the juvenile lead opposite Miss Gish.

Mabel Normand, former Keystone Comedy star, will make her appearance at the New Strand Sunday in "A Perfect 36."

FULLER.

At the Fuller, today, they are offering Rex Beach's comedy-drama, "Too Fat to Fight," with Frank McIntyre in the leading part. Frank McIntyre, the 300-pound comedian, gets many a hearty laugh, in his efforts to be of service to his country.

"The Little Teacher" Tomorrow.

Gohan and Harris will present at the Fuller tomorrow, for a matinee and night performance, "The Little Teacher," with Mary Ryan in the leading part. This company comes to Madison, with the same cast of players and production seen during the long run in New York city. "The Little Teacher" is a comedy in four acts, a love story with a strong and novel appeal. It renews your belief in the big fundamental things of life.

Heart and Beauty Problems

By MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am engaged to a young man and have been since October 24 this year. His parents are against me and want him to have nothing to do with me, although I have done nothing to injure them in any way. When he and I became engaged he asked me to be true to him and not go with any fellows, and I told me he would do likewise. After he went back to camp he wrote to another girl, and then wrote and told me he would have to write to her to keep peace at home.

I am convinced that he is true to me. What should I do under this circumstance? Don't you think that he would do this before marriage and would do it afterward? Should I write him and tell him that he shall have to take his pick between her and parents or no parents?

My parents have told me to write to him and see what you have to say.

G. I. S.

The man should take a definite stand with his parents. He should positively refuse to write to the other girl, regardless of the way his parents feel. Unless he has the confidence and great enough love to stand by you absolutely, give him up. You may suffer now if your engagement is broken, but you will be happier in the end.

* * *

Dear Mrs. Thompson: This fall I was taken very sick and I had to send my little boy to his grandmother. He was away from me three months, but now I have him home again. I was always very strict with him and until now he believed that my word was law. Now I cannot make him do anything I want him to. He is only four years old, but he is stubborn and irritable. What would you advise me to do?

MOTHER.

The child's irritability may be caused by some physical disturbance. He may have adenoids, or perhaps in the past three months has lacked the proper kind of food. Take him to a physician and have him examined. Also have the physician recommend a proper diet. Be sure that the child is getting enough sleep and fresh air.

For naughtiness the best thing you can do is to deprive him of the things he likes. Take away his favorite toy for a week, do not let him have dessert for dinner, or shut him in a room alone for two or three hours. All of these methods are very effective. Sometimes it is necessary to deprive the child of his dinner. This should absolutely never be done unless something nourishing is put in the place of the dinner. Bread and milk would be a punishment in place of foods that he likes, but at the same time it would be good for him.

* * *

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been asked to go to a dance. My girl friend also wants to attend, but she has had no invitation, because she is married and her husband is in France. She hints for me to ask the young man who is going to take me if she can go along with us. I would rather go alone with him, but I don't want to be selfish. What shall I do? Shall I ask him if she can go along? It would cost him fifty cents extra if she goes, unless she pays her own way. She says she would pay, but I know he wouldn't let her.

GRACE R.

You should not ask the young man if she can go to the dance with you. You are his guest and it is not selfish to accept his invitation without including your girl friend. It is selfish for her to want to intrude.

* * *

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am constantly bothered with pimples on my face. I seem to be in good health. What is the cause of this?

DIMPLES.

Pimples are caused from an unhealthy condition of the blood. Very often fresh air and out-door exercise will cure them completely. Walk two or three miles a day and sleep with your windows wide open.

Do not eat rich foods, such as pie, cake, pork and fried vegetables. Also give up eating candy.

Either way is correct. If she wants to put in money of her own it is all right. But it also is all right if she simply goes with him and lets him take care of the collection money.

* * *

Dear Mrs. Thompson: When going to church with a young man, should a girl take money for the collection plate, or should she let the boy put in for both?

DOUBTFUL.

MRS. WILSON'S LONDON GARB

LONDON—"I wonder what she will wear?" was the principal topic among London women as they awaited the arrival of Mrs. Wilson along the line of procession.

Here is what a woman writer says:

"Mrs. Wilson wore a sealskin sacque three-quarters length and a hat with an aigret. The queen and Princess Mary had touches of color in their headgear."

"Mrs. Wilson, a pleasant, comely woman, chatted busily with the queen. She was a little afraid, it seemed, to take the cheers as meant in any way for herself, but now and again she smiled delightedly at the crowd and the women liked her kind, motherly face.

A First Class Milwaukee Investment for Any Sum From $50 to $500,000

The Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light Company is going to borrow $3,600,000, for five years, from its customers and other friends in Milwaukee and Wisconsin.

This money will be used in part to pay for plant additions made during 1918, in part for additions to be made during 1919. Construction work held back by the war must be rushed forward on a large scale during the next two or three years to meet the requirements of the Milwaukee industrial district.

You are hereby respectfully invited to lend us a part of this $3,600,000, on gilt-edged security, at 7% interest.

The State of Wisconsin, which regulates this business and assures it a fair yearly return on its investment, has authorized us to borrow this sum of money. The State has authorized us to issue $3,600,000 of 5-year, bond-secured Notes. The State has authorized us to pay 7% interest on these Notes, and to sell them to the public in order to get new capital for the public service.

Payment of interest on these Notes semi-annually, and of the principal in five years, is secured by:

First: Forty-year gold bonds of the Milwaukee Light, Heat & Traction Company, $125 of the bonds for each $100 of the Notes, the bonds being deposited with the First Trust Company of Milwaukee as trustee for the Note buyers.

Second: These Notes are a general obligation of The Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light Company, which it must satisfy before it can pay a dollar of dividends in any year. During the twenty-two years since it was organized in 1896 The Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light Company has never failed to pay every dollar of its obligations, with interest as agreed promptly on the due-date. Even during 1918, the hardest year American public utility companies ever saw, this Company has earned interest on all of its obligations, and has something left over for its stock holders. They won't fare as well as usual, but they are "eating their two ounces" as cheerfully as everybody else has done during war times, confident that peace means better times for everyone.

Third: These Notes are backed by the good faith in the State of Wisconsin, which authorized their issuance and sale to the public as being in the public interest, and which has the power and the legal obligation to see to it that this business under efficient and competent management shall earn enough to pay interest and principal.

The interest earned by these Notes is very high, considering their safety. It is $7 a year on each $100—$35 for five years' use of $100; $350 for five years' use of $1,000; $3,500 for five years' use of $10,000; $35,000 for five years' use of $100,000.

These Notes are issued in $50, $100, $500 and $1,000 sizes. There is no accrued interest to pay when you buy them. You pay par for them in cash or certified check, and they start drawing 7% interest for you from the day you buy them.

We wish to borrow a part of the $3,600,000 from you—anything from $50 to $500,000—whatever sum of money you have that is idle, or that is earning less than 7% with safety. We want several thousand Milwaukee and Wisconsin investors to acquire an interest in this business. We want the earnings of the business, so far as possible, distributed here at home, to help build up other industries in this city and State.

When you buy these Notes you are doing these things:

First: You are making a first class investment.

Second: You are making your money help enlarge the electric power, light, heat and transportation facilities of Wisconsin's largest city—promoting its growth and prosperity and thereby adding to the value of all of your other investments.

Where to Buy the Notes

The public sale of these Notes began at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning, December 18, in our Securities Department, ground floor of the Public Service Building, corner Third and Sycamore streets, Milwaukee.

The Securities Department will be open until 9 p. m. daily during this sale, to accommodate those who cannot come during the day. Our agents there will be glad to give further information and to answer all questions.

If you want some of the Notes reserved for you, to be taken any time during the next three months, we shall be glad to hold them at your request.

It occurs to us that one or more of these Notes would make an excellent New Year's gift—a gift growing in value with every day that passes. We expect a great many will be bought for this purpose.

Buyers outside of Milwaukee are asked to order through their home banks. If such buyers prefer to order direct from the Company, the Notes will be delivered through their home banks, C. O. D.

Passed by the Capital Issues Committee as not incompatible with the National interest, but without approval of legality, validity, worth or security. (Opinion No. A-2757.)

FOR THE BACHELOR GIRL

A Luncheon—The following represents an attractive studio lunch: Flakes from codfish steak heated in a little olive oil with capers thrown in. Mashed sweet potatoes sprinkled with riced cheese melted in the oven for a minute and served in tiny ramekins with minute handles. Boston brown bread cut thin spread with sweet butter and orange or grapefruit conserve. Roquefort cheese, small red apples and demi tasse coffee.

Sandwiche Bites—Tiny pieces of toast. Three inches long and not more than half an inch wide. Have them thin. Butter slightly and lay aside. Toss a few smallest of tender sardines in the frying pan for a minute with bits of bacon the same size of the little fish. Remove, making a sandwich of the tiny fish, a bacon strip reposing on top and the two lengths of toast. Pin together at the end with a toothpick and lay in the oven for the bacon to heat a second longer. Send to the table, picks and all.

Individual Orange Salads — Cut large, rich, juicy oranges from California in half between the stem and seed ends and divide and loosen the pulp as for grapefruit. Dip each bit of the flesh in mayonnaise and return to its place. A little of the sauce on top and some ground nut meats sifted over. Serve with thin sandwiches of home-made white bread spread with rich salted butter. Hot chocolate.

GOOD TO EAT

Spaghetti and Sausage— Boil a half a pound of small-sized spaghetti in four times as much water. Have the water salted and boiling furiously. Coil in the spaghetti and cook for twenty minutes or more. Remove and drain. Fill a French baking dish with layers of spaghetti, a little thickened milk and some grated American cheese and thin slices of any of the bologna variety of sausages. The liver sausage is delicious this way. Add more spaghetti and brown with dots of butter on top.

Ginger Snaps—One cup molasses, one-half cup shortening, three and one-quarter cups flour, one-half teaspoon soda, one tablespoon ginger, one and one-half teaspoon salt. Heat molasses to boiling point and pour over shortening; add dry ingredients mixed and sifted, chill thoroughly. Roll thinly as possible. Bake in moderate oven.

Potato Pancakes — Boiled potatoes, flour (buckwheat), one-half cup; baking powder, two teaspoons; salt, one quarter teaspoon; eggs, two; milk, one scant cup. Have the spider hot and well greased. Put enough boiled potato through the potato ricer to cover the bottom of the spider at least half an inch. Dredge very lightly with salt and then pour over the batter made from the remaining ingredients in the following manner: Sift the flour, baking powder and salt into the bowl. Make a well in the center beat the eggs until light, add to the milk and stir gradually into this little well until all the flour is taken up and the batter is smooth When the pancake is brown beneath and there are bubbles on top, turn and brown the other side. These are very nice served with roast beef or with jelly for supper or lunch.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS URGED BY BRITTEN

Republican Representative Says America Must Live up to Ideals

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—In introducing a resolution today calling on the peace conference to adopt Pres. Wilson's plan for a league of nations, Rep. Britten of Illinois, republican, said unless such a league is established, "The entire world will immediately throw into the discharge the contention that America entered the war to make the world safe for democracy."

Every unit of the German navy, whether surrendered or interned, Mr. Britten contended, should form a nucleus for world navy for patrol duty on the high seas.

TO BE EXPECTED

IS the street car company still saving coal "to help win the war"?

Are passengers, after paying their six cents, supposed to find comfort in the thought that they are shivering in order "to do their bit"?

* * *

Some time ago (after being prodded to do it) the Wisconsin railroad commission issued orders to the Madison Railways company providing for the heating of cars.

Last night Car No. 62, Winnebago street line, left the Capitol square about 10:20 o'clock. There were 32 passengers in the car. Most of them had paid six cents to ride. Many had to stand.

The car was as cold as a barn. Not a spark of fire stirred in the stove. It could easily qualify as a refrigerator car.

* * *

Some time ago The Capital Times made the statement that the Wisconsin railroad commission is a joke as far as any respect for its orders on SERVICE is shown.

The Madison railway company has been a constant violator of service orders of the commission. The law provides that failure to comply with service orders shall be punished by a fine.

* * *

A man who leaves a horse standing out in the cold without a blanket on is haled into court and fined. And he should be.

A public utility, however, which allows human beings to stand in a car and freeze is not fined.

A railroad commission gives the utility increased fares.

WAGES OF WORKMEN

IT is generally understood that the wages of workmen are very high and that now the war is over they must come down. The report of the industrial commission giving the average wage of workmen who received compensation under the compensation act is a good index of wages.

The report just out shows the average weekly wage of employes injured for the first six months of this year to have been $17.64. Many skilled workmen received much more than that, hence many must have received much less.

How a man with a family can live on less than $17.64 a week in these times of high prices is beyond our understanding. In figuring a weekly wage only working days are counted and no allowance is taken for time off on account of sickness or because of unemployment. If there is as much unemployment this winter as now seems probable there is going to be much actual suffering.

When we get down to facts there doesn't seem to have been much profiteering among the workers of Wisconsin during the war. The fact is that the cost of living increased faster than the wages. And wages will drop sooner than the cost of living if we figure loss of employment. Already men are going on a basis of shorter hours which means less wages while the cost of living has decreased not at all.

It won't help Madison much that one manufacturing concern has made millions in war profits when its workmen who helped to make those profits are unable to pay their grocery bills. Even now Madison merchants would be better off if part of these enormous profits had been distributed among the working men.

What Madison needs is more general prosperity instead of excessive incomes for a few already too rich for their own good and the common welfare.

Here is a subject for the consideration of the Association of Commerce. It may not be a pleasant topic for the association but we feel assured that it will be less pleasant later on when the pinch of hunger comes to the underpaid and the unemployed.

SINKING GERMAN SHIPS

WE are glad to report the president's opposition to the sinking of the captured German navy. We would more gladly record the agreement of all nations to salvage the greater part of the navies of the world. Unless armaments are limited by all the great nations we have gained little in our war for democracy. Democracy is not safe anywhere so long as nations are armed to the teeth. Military parties and military methods are autocratic. They are the very opposite of democracy. Their business is war, and war means the killing of the common people. War means the strengthening of autocracy whenever the military are left in power. In wars the rich become richer and more arrogant. In wars the poor become poorer and less able to assert their rights.

It is the shipbuilders and the munition makers that would sink the captured German navy for so long as it is in the hands of the allies there can be no excuse for building more battleships nor more guns.

We believe the president is going to respond to the aspirations of the masses in all countries and seek a limitation on armed forces in all countries. If he shall not do this we will disappoint those people in this country who have given him their confidence and support. Unless he shall do this, 'twere better that he had remained at home instead of going abroad to consort with the crowned heads of Europe. The president is in position to demand not only a just peace but an assurance of future peace. In such a demand he will have the support not only of free peoples everywhere but of subject peoples everywhere.

Let the president hold true to the course he has announced so often in the war and he will gain for himself a position in history alongside of the sainted Lincoln.

Chief Oshkosh's Visit With President Filmore Recalled

Wisconsin Indian Went on Mission for Tribe to Washington —Chiefs Heard Jenny Lind—Price Paid to Hear "Noisy Lady" Considered Big by Unemotional Redmen—Jefferson Davis Given Pummeling by Kentuckian at Ft. Winnebago.

By FRED L. HOLMES

The activities of Lieutenant Jefferson Davis, later head of the confederacy, while an officer at Winnebago, life at the Indian trading posts in the Fox valley before Wisconsin was admitted as a territory, the visit of Chief Oshkosh to President Fillmore and how the Indian delegation considered the singing of famous Jenny Lind are recalled in an old manuscript that was recently discovered in the files of the Wisconsin Historical society. The statement contains the recollections of William Powell, one of the most active Indian traders in Wisconsin during the time when the principal export from this country was furs and not grains and dairy products.

During the year 1878, Powell was visited by Lyman C. Draper, secretary of the historical society, who obtained the story of Powell's career. After the document was transcribed it was filed away and only recently came to light. In his later years Powell was a resident of Shawano county. He had been intimately connected with the Menomonees and other Wisconsin tribes since 1819.

Saw Ft. Winnebago.

"When my father returned from Hudson Bay in 1822 and left me in care of Captain Alexander, I remained with him three years at Fort Snelling," says Captain Powell in his recollections. "The captain besent on a recruiting service to St. Louis, took me with him, and during his stay there sent me to school five miles from Belle Fontaine.

"I remained there until the spring of 1827, when I came to Rock Island, and stayed until the first of September, 1828, when my father sent for me and I came home to Butte des Morts. When I arrived where Portage City now is, Major Twiggs had just got there with two or three companies of United States troops to commence building the fort, which was called Fort Winnebago. Twiggs was the commanding officer. Jefferson Davis was also there, just from West Point; he was only second lieutenant at that time.

"Two years later, while Lieutenant Davis was stationed at Fort Winnebago, Twiggs still commanding, a powerful Kentuckian named Stewart, a carpenter by trade, dwelt there as Daniel M. Whitney's agent in transporting boats over the portage. There was a camp of Menominee Indians near the American Fur Company's store, where Piere Paquette lived, and Stewart went over one day with a tanned deer skin to get some moccasins made. It was a Sunday, and Davis happening to be there, ordered him off. Stewart intimated that he had as much right there as Davis had, and that he should go when he got ready, and not before. Davis felt his dignity insulted, and gave Stewart an unexpected and heavy blow. Stewart recovering, pitched upon Davis and gave him a severe whipping, badly bruising his face and eyes. I was then a clerk in the store, and Davis had me get a chicken, kill it, and put the fresh carcass on his face, to prevent the bruises from leaving their discolored marks. Stewart, himself brave, was persuaded by Mr. Whitney, his employer, to leave for Green Bay, lest he should be retaliated on by Davis or his friends, and he subsequently returned to Kentucky.

Lived at Butte des Morts.

"Except for a short time at the Portage, I remained with my father at Butte des Morts until 1832, then went as first lieutenant in the Black Hawk war. After the war, I returned home and went into partnership with Robert Grignon in the Indian trade. We established our trading post at Algoma in the fall of 1832, and continued at that place till the fall of 1835, when we dissolved our copartnership and I went and lived with my father until he died.

"I was appointed United States interpreter for the Menominee in 1836. The same year, Gov. Henry Dodge of Mineral Point was appointed commissioner to make a treaty with the Menominee; this was concluded Sept. 3, 1836. After the treaty I resigned and went into the Indian trade on Fox river, two miles above where Omro now is, and continued to trade there till 1846, when for a year I established a trading post at the mouth of Shawano creek, in Shawano county. Then quitting the Indian trade, I was again appointed, in 1848, United States interpreter and in that capacity served at the treaty of that year. Medill was the commissioner on the part of the government in that treaty, wherein the Menominee ceded all of their country that they owned in Wisconsin for $400,000. By its terms the government gave them for their future home a tract of 500,000 acres of land on the Crow Wing river, 150 to 200 miles above St. Paul. They were to remain in Wisconsin for two years after the ratification of the treaty, and then to move to the Crow Wing. At the same time the Government agreed to furnish $5,000 to defray the expenses of a delegation of nine chiefs with their head chief Oshkosh to go and examine the country before removing in 1850.

Chiefs to Washington

"President Taylor instructed Major Brune, Indian agent at Green Bay, to take a delegation of chiefs and go and survey the land allotted to them on the Crow Wing, and after doing so to bring the same delegation to Washington and report. I accompanied the delegation to the Crow Wing, and with us went my old friend Charles Tullar, who was employed to survey the tract. He did not, however, go on with us to Washington, as he had more important business that required him to remain at Green Bay. Arriving at Washington on September 3 we remained there some two weeks before Oshkosh with the other chiefs could get an interview with the commissioner of Indian affairs. There were at the federal capital representatives of several other tribes of Indians, who had business with their great father, the president, who had got there some days ahead of us; so we had to wait till our turn came. When the time arrived, our Wisconsin chiefs were notified that they might come and see their great father and talk over their business with him. We conducted Chief Oshkosh and the rest of the Indians to the commissioner's office at about 9 o'clock a. m. Here we were received by Chief Clerk Charles E. Mix, acting in the place of the commissioner, Mr. Lowrey, who was sick at the time. After a short talk, Mr. Mix accompanied the delegation to the office of the secretary of the interior and from there the latter conducted his visitors to the White House. After the chiefs were seated according to rank, President Fillmore, accompanied by General Scott, entered and the chiefs were presented and shook hands with both. Chief Oshkosh recognized General Scott, for he had seen him both at Green Bay and at the treaty at Prairie du Chien. The general also recollected Oshkosh, who was a small man, standing only about five feet. When he shook hands with the general, Oshkosh said: 'You are like a tall pine tree and myself like a scrub oak, so I stand under your branches to protect my head from harm.'

Oshkosh at Washington

"The interview with their Great Father was brief. Oshkosh stated in a very few words that the Crow Wing country was not what it had been represented to his tribe by Commissioner Medill, who made the treaty of 1848; and that the tribe did not like to move to that country because the Indians already there were continually engaged in intertribal war. He preferred, he said, a home somewhere in Wisconsin, for the poorest region in Wisconsin was better than that of the Crow Wing. He said that the latter was a good country for the white man, for he was numerous and could protect himself from these warlike tribes; but his own tribe was small, and he wished them to live in peace for the little time they had to live.

"The latter part of September I started from Washington for Green Bay in charge of the delegation, and was instructed by the department to stop at the largest eastern cities a few days to show the chiefs the principal places so as to give them an idea how numerous their white brother were. We stayed a week in New York and went to Barnum's Museum every day. Barnum invited Oshkosh and his chiefs to come and hear the great singer, Jenny Lind, but Oshkosh declined the invitation. A few of the younger chiefs went, however, but when they were asked by the other chiefs how they liked the singing, they replied that she made a very big noise and then a little noise. The white man must have a great deal more money than he needed, to pay so much to hear this lady sing."

The Methodist minister in a small country town was noted for his begging propensities and for his ability to extract generous offerings from the close-fisted congregations, which was made up mostly of farmers. One day the young son of one of the members accidentally swallowed a ten-cent piece, much to the excitement of the rest of the family. Every means of dislodging the coin had failed and the frightened parents were about to give up in despair when a bright thought struck the little daughter, who exclaimed:

"Oh, mamma, I know how you can get it! Send for our minister; he'll get it out of him!"

Voice of the People

THANKS FOR HELP

To the Editor of The Capital Times:

Your co-operation with the agricultural forces of the state has been one of the reasons for Wisconsin's splendid answer to the nation's call for more food.

The officials of the experiment station and the college of agriculture wish, at this time, to express their appreciation for the manner in which you have co-operated with them for the past year. They wish to credit the publishers of the state with no small part in the successful completion of the state's agricultural program for 1918, and to solicit a continuance of this co-operation in helping to meet the new tasks which in 1919 will be laid upon the agricultural agencies of Wisconsin.

Sincerely yours,
A. W. Hopkins,
Editor of Agricultural Experiment Station.

DINNER STORIES

A member of a diplomatic corps tells a story of a Persian who came to this country on a special mission. Among those who entertained him was a wealthy man who invited the Oriental to his country house. The morning of the guest's arrival the host visited him in his apartment and was astonished to see him hopping about the floor in the strangest way imaginable. The host ventured to ask the reason for this curious action. The Persian replied:

"You see, this carpet is green with pink roses here and there. Green is a sacred color with us, so I am obliged to hop from rose to rose. It is good exercise, but rather fatiguing."

Two shipwrecked sailors were on a desert island. They were utterly miserable, pinched with hunger and cold. The one more wretched than the other said to his companion:

"Can you pray, Bill?"

"No."

"Can you sing a hymn?"

"No."

"Well," said the first, "let's have something religious; let's have a collection."

"I'm going to get a divorce. My wife hasn't spoken to me for six months."

"Better be careful. You'll never get another wife like that."

HOW SWITZERLAND HANDLES THE BOLSHEVIKI PROBLEM

Switzerland has taken a drastic and effective method of dealing with Bolshevism which for a time threatened the life of the little nation. The Bolshevik mission had a representative in Switzerland at the close of the war. He was tolerated on his agreement to refrain from all propaganda activities. A general strike throughout the country was traced to the Bolsheviks. Their minister and his associates were ordered out of the country. When they refused to leave voluntarily the Swiss authorities escorted them to the railroad station at Berne and placed them on a train bound for Russia. Swiss troops prevented any demonstration by Yellow Bolsheviks.

KIEV PEASANTS INFURIATED; PETLURA IN CITY

Ukrainian Leader Drives Out Russian Forces; Horrors of Anarchy

(By the Associated Press)

WARSAW (Tuesday) — Forces led by Petlura, the Ukrainian leader, drove Gen. Skoropadski out Sunday, Dec. 15. Petlura himself entered the city last week. Prince Radziwill, a Polish land owner, escaped and reached here with other refugees, who include 400 Russian officers driven out of the district of Kiev by peasants. Prince Radziwill told the Associated Press:

"I left Kiev again. The shops are closed and it is still occupied by the German troops under Gen. Eichhorn. The horrors of anarchy in the country, especially in the Kiev district cannot be realized. The landlords and their managers were driven by peasants and turned out into the bitter cold.

Women Ill Treated

"The peasants have begun to ill treat women. This is something new to Bolshevism. For instance, if they cannot find the husband or father they arrest they take the wife, mother or daughter.

"I myself dressed as a railroad official and on a train carrying a number of German soldiers, a few women and some civilians. At every station there was a fight to get by. The peasants are robbing and disarming German soldiers everywhere. They are infuriated because of German requisitions of grain and food. It is estimated that possibly 100,000 Germans are still left in Ukraine, but those in Kiev are armed. I believe they will eventually make their way home. Throughout all of Ukraine, which is inhabited by 30,000,000 people, affairs must be regarded as absolutely chaotic."

Peasants Want Independence

It is stated that the defeat of Skoropadski may be attributed to the fact that he proclaimed Ukraine a part of Russia, whereas the peasants want that country to be independent.

A message from Danzig says the Germans are dismantling the port works and taking off all of the dock machinery, fearing the arrival of Bolshevik forces. It is also rumored that the armistice conference may give that city to Poland.

Posen is reported to be again in German hands, after the defeat of Polish troops near that city.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

Sage Tea Mixed with Sulphur it Brings Back Its Beautiful Lustre at Once.

Your hair, however handsome, denotes your growing age. We all know the signs of a youthful appearance. Dark hair is your charm. It makes you look the face. When it turns gray and looks streaked, faded, dull, applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance tenfold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Prepare the recipe at home or ask any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of people recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears: after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you look years younger.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

NOW BOUND FOR HOME

U. S. battleship "New York" leading American battle squadron out of Harwich, England, on way to scene of surrender of German navy.

The American battle squadron which has been operating in European waters since America entered the war, is bound for home now. It is expected to arrive at New York the day before Christmas. A gigantic review has been arranged as a tribute to the officers and men aboard. Secretary Daniels of the navy will review the fleet.

WITH THE WOMEN OF TODAY

The international committee of women on permanent peace, of which Miss Jane Addams is the president, is making an effort to get before the European peace committee the ideas of the women of the world as to the essentials of an enduring peace. They had hoped to convene in Paris a congress of women of all nations, including enemy countries, during the sessions of the peace conference at Versailles. This was finally deemed impractical and it looks now as if The Hague would be the meeting place of the women. A definite decision will not be made, however, until after a meeting of the executive committee to be held in Boston, and until the members in other countries are communicated with.

In speaking of the plans of the women, Miss Addams said: "We are entirely law abiding. We do not wish to do anything contrary to the wishes of this government nor to embarrass in any way the negotiations at the peace conference.

"But women have well defined principles that should be incorporated in the final agreement among the nations of the world in order to secure a permanent peace, and we would like the opportunity of presenting them to the world for whatever effect they may have on the deliberations of the plenipotentiaries at Paris. It is not the purpose of the women to meddle or embarrass, but only to sound public opinion and present their views."

Miss Addams saw Secretary Lansing, having previously seen Secretary Baker, to learn if there were any objections to the holding of the women's meeting while the peace conference was in session. She was informed, it was understood, that officials of the government would interpose no obstacles to the meeting, although it probably is true that in some quarters the proposed convention is being looked upon with some misgivings, due to the attitude some of the women in the organization took toward participation by the United States in the war.

OVER HERE AND OVER THERE

In Netherlands, where women have eligibility but no vote, one woman has been elected to its legislature.

Danish women became eligible for parliament in 1915 and this year four women have been elected as members of the lower house.

American lumberjacks working in England and France are being assisted by detachments of young women who use heavy, two-handed saws nearly as well as the men.

"Real" Advertising Doesn't Cost Anything

By real advertising we don't mean "jimcracks" or "gewgaws" or signs or circulars—but real advertising—THE CAPITAL TIMES advertising.

The kind of advertising that goes right into every home every day, yes, twice a day—tells your story—quotes your price—shows your goods and brings the buyer to your store for some specific article.

Oh yes! You have to pay a lot of money for it. Good things always come high. But in this case it comes out of your competitor's pocket.

Sounds odd—but it's a fact.

Take for example this concrete illustration:

Smith is a hardware merchant.
So is Jones.
Wilson is a customer of Jones.
Smith advertises.
He advertises a certain kind of washing machine that Wilson wants.
Jones has the very same machine in stock but Wilson doesn't know it.

Result—Wilson becomes a customer of Smith and Jones wonders why.

Who paid for Smith's ad? Smith didn't.

You see the value of real advertising—The Capital Times advertising—over all other kinds of advertising.

The Capital Times advertising is a salesman who is a welcome guest at every family fireside. A salesman who comes among clean, wholesome surroundings. A salesman who inspires confidence—who makes sales.

Through no other means can you reach all of Madison's homes so easily, so effectively and so economically.

You should include The Capital Times advertising in your 1919 program, Mr. Merchant.

No—not the hit and miss—haphazard—start and quit kind—but a systematic, well organized, well planned campaign to run the season through. Backed by a determination to stick to the finish.

Our advertising men will gladly help you plan such a campaign and will assist you in its execution. Phone Badger 2200.

As soon as possible after his release from the navy, Pal intends to accept the $10,000 offer of the London Sporting club for a return match with Wilde.

Americans Handicapped.

Harry Greb, another American boxer, who participated in the tournament at London, declared on his returnto New York that the American team would havewon hands down if it had not labored under such severe handicaps, which he declares were a great aid to the British, who won the first honors.

Both Greb and Moore showed considerable feeling over the raw decision handed Ritchie Mitchell, star Milwaukee boxer. Ritchie won by a mile, according to Pal, and the referee congratulated him on his victory, but the three judges outside the ring gave the match to his opponent. "It was plain robbery," Pal declares.

Raise $100,000.

About $100,000 was raised for the wounded sailors and soldiers by the tournament, which lasted two days and nights

Greb expects that Bombardier Wells, who defeated Eddie McGoorty, will come to this country soon. Wilde also plans to come here.

How 1918 Leaves Boxing Situation

The year 1919 ought to see many championship boxing contests. The war halted the title contests in 1918.

Now that peace has come the champions who gave their time to Uncle Sam will be ready to risk their crowns again and the fighters who used the war as one of many alibis for ducking strong opponents will be forced to come out from cover or retire for good.

Jess Willard hasn't given onyone a chance at his championship crown since March 25, 1916. He hooked up that night with Frank Moran in a ten-round no-decision affair and Moran would have had to knock him out to obtain any sort of a hold on the title.

Jess used his newly acquired circus and later his oil interests as reasons for not re-entering the ring. Then the war came along and Jess used that to duck his obligation to the sporting public. He played true to form by acting like a cheese champion when the Red Cross and other worthy war organizations attempted to enlist his services to help raise funds.

Jack Dempsey looms up as the main contender for Jess's crown. He does deserve a crack at Willard. His decisive victories over Fulton, Morris mad others last year earned him a chance at Joss.

Mike O'Dowd earned the middleweight title during the year, but has become too heavy to remain in that class and it looks as though Mike Gibbons deserves the crown. He will be considered as a champ, at least.

Ted Lewis, the welterweight champion, defended his title several times during the year, although it must be said that many of the boys he met were repeaters, including Jack Britton and Johnny Griffiths. Benny Leonard risked his title but a few times and may be forced to enter the welterweight class soon. When he fought Kilbane eighteen months ago Leonard weighed 137 pounds. It may be that 1919 will see a new lightweight champ. Richie Mitchell, Joe Welling; Pal Moore, Frankie Britt and Lew Tendler are likely looking boys to seek his title.

Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion, has announced that he intends to resign from his army duties and re-enter the ring. Kilbane's policy always has been to meet all comers. He has never ducked a contender. Pete Herman is still the bantam champ. Kewpie Ertle claims an interest in it, but the last year's battles do not give him any great claim. Pal Moore, Wilson and Joe Burman, in addition to Ertle, are still seeking a chance at the title.

If Jimmie Wilde, English flyweight, visits the United States next season the proposed return bout between him and Pal Moore will cause a boom in the baby class.

Famous Georgia Tech Grid Team Ranks With Greatest American Football Elevens

Was Organized by Gen. Wood in 1892; Did Not Lose a Game in Three Years; 1915-16-17; Joe Loomis Back From Service; Columbia to Have Crew

John W. Heisman, coach of Georgia Tech's unbeaten elevens, insists that the famous "Heinsman jump shift" is not illegal. It is that formation originated by Heisman in 1910, which it is declared has done so much in making the tech elevens unbeatable.

"Numerous descriptions of the 'jump shift' have appeared in the papers, but each has been inaccurate, if not actually misleading," declares Heinsban. "To clear away all dougts as to the legality of the play and explain it fully, I shall go into details about it.

"Upon original formation, the snapper (center) with the ball is the only man on the actual scrimmage line. The rest of the linesmen—two guards, two tackles and two ends—are about one yard back of the snapper. Another yard back on a direct line with the snapper is the quarterback. Back of the quarterback is the right half, behind him is the fullback and behind the fullback is the left half.

In other words, the formation is a gigantic letter 'T.'

"At a given signal the team, except the snapper, jumps to certain given directions—according to the play called for. They do not all jump alike, either in distance or direction. As a matter of fact the system in its entirety calls for the men to jump in a great variety of all the men shift uniform distances thing that they do in common and that is they all jump Simultaneously. When properly drilled and practiced this jump in unison results in their landing back on earth in perfect unison in their new positions. At the completion of this jump they come to a complete stop, as is required by the rules, and seven of them are always found now to be on the line of scrimmage, as again called for by the rules. These seven are, however, not necessarily the same seven in all cases.

"In their new positions after the jump, the eleven men pause for the barest fraction of a second. Almost instantly after the shift and the fractional stop of the players on the scrimmage line, the ball goes into play. Then the whole team is off with the ball, the idea being to transfer a lot of man power to the given point of attack before the defense can assemble an equal strength in man power to oppose the assault.

"The Heisman shift involves not only the backs, but the linesmen as well. It is employed on every close formation play, and calls for a great variety of differing ways and distances of jumping on the part of the different men, whereas in most shifts all the men shift uniform dis-tances and in the same direction.

"Early in the season it is difficult to teach new men the thing so they will not either jump too soon or too late and thus offend some rule or other, but by November it is always found working very smoothly.

"The best evidence in the world that the "jump shift' is not illegal is the fact that we have employed it in each of our games from 1910, in which some of the most famous officials in America have been involved —and not one has found fault with it."

Jimmy Archer Famous Cub Retires

Jimmy Archer, once the Cubs' star catcher, has retired from baseball. He was a member of the Brooklyns, Pirates and Cincinnati Reds last season, and at times he displayed flashes of his old skill. But Archer's permanently crippled right hand interferred with his throwing, so that he was used only in emergencies. Archer might secure a position as coach, but he says that he prefers to go into business. Thus the national game loses one of the greatest ball players that ever put on a mask.

Tiger Athlete Killed In Fall

NEW YORK — Capt. Hobart A. H. Baker, the famous Princeton athlete, known in his college days as "Hobey" Baker, an aviator in the American army in France, has been killed in the fall of his plane.

Baker was famous in eastern amateur and college athletic circles for his football and hockey playing. He easily made the Princeton varsity eleven and was a member of the backfield from 1911 to 1913 as well as captain of the team in his senior year. He was also captain and a prominent factor in many of the victories of the Princeton hockey team.

Turning Down of Sir Thomas Lipton's Challenge Recalls Pre-War Yacht Racing Plans

Wind Delayed Contests in 1914; Shamrock Design Kept Secret

NEW YORK—The New York Yacht club has declined the challenge issued by Sir Thomas Lipton to U. S. yachtsmen to defend the America's cup. Lipton sent the challenge through the Royal Ulster Yacht club of England. He planned to use the "Shamrock IV." America would probably have used the "Resolute." The "Resolute" has been carefully kept in condition ever since the race between the two boats was postponed in 1914 because of the war.

After the races were called off in 1914 at the suggestion of the New York Yacht club, which Sir Thomas approved of, the Shamrock and the defending candidates, Resolute and Vanitie, were housed over on shore. Since then there have been several communications exchanged between Sir Thomas and the New York Yacht club, all in line with his expressed desire to race when the war was over. A year ago Sir Thomas requested the club to let the matter stand as it did when the war broke out, and he secured assurance that no other challenge would be accepted until he had a chance to race again.

Wind Delayed Races.

The last races held for the America's cup were scheduled for August, but were not finished until Sept. 8 on account of postponement when there was no wind. The last of August is considered the best time to hold them, and the 10 months' clause in the deed of gift undoubtedly would be wasted inasmuch as the yachts are actually built.

New sails probably would have to be made for both challenger and defender. There is easily time for that. Their spars are as good today as they ever were.

There is one thing, however, that would necessitate the placing of the yachts in commission early in the summer, and that is the fact that their crews have been scattered. The training of new crews would take time.

What Shamrock IV would have to race against to try her out is a question. Both Vanitie and Resolute are available for competition to select the defender. Vanitie's sails were all worn out when the trial races were stopped four years ago. She is owned by Alexander Smith Cochran, who is in the west. He probably would be asked if he cared to race her again against Resolute, and if he decided not to he might turn her over to some member of the New York club who would. Vanitie is lying on the beach at City Island.

Shamrock is resting in a cradle and sheltered by a sheet iron building erected around her in a shipyard in Erie Basin. She has been regularly inspected every three months by W. D. Dickey, Sir Thomas Lipton's mechanical engineer in this country. Mr. Dickey, who is well known as a marine engineer and ship builder, has cared for every one of Sir Thomas's challengers on this side of the water.

Shamrock Is Stripped.

The spars, rigging and fittings of the Shamrock IV. are housed beside her in a long and specially constructed shed. Every fixture and partition in the racer was taken out when she was hauled ashore in 1914, so that nothing mare than the empty hull is resting on the cradle. Thousands of dollars have been expended by Sir Thomas in keeping Shamrock in as good condition as possible.

Her spars and rigging are thought to be in excellent trim. They were loked over on Oct. 14 last by Mr. Dickey. Since 1914 they have been wrapped in oil paper and burlap, which has never been removed. The great wooden mast is declared to be in perfect condition.

The design of the Shamrock IV. has been kept a close secret. Only a few of Sir Thomas's most intimate friends and yachting associates are familiar with it. This is one of the reasons she has been so closely guarded in the Shewan yard.

Lieut. Commander Robert W. Emmons, 2d of Boston, manager of the syndicate which built the Resolute, is at present on overseas duty.

Giants Look Strong.

Arthur Irwin endeavoring to sell to the Giants Earl Smith, the young catcher who jumped into prominence last season as a result of his sensational work behind the bat for the Rochester club of the International league. Practically every major league club has been on the trail of Smith since last summer and Irwin has received a number of very fine bids for his services. However, Irwin asks $10,000 for his young star and the Giants are said to have first call on him. Irwin make a trip to Chicago while the Giants were in that city last summer in the endeavor to close a deal for the player with John McGraw, but at that time the outlook for baseball in 1919 was dismal and the Giant leader could not see his way clear to pay a big price for a minor league player.

Smith is only twenty-one and is now in the army, but as he is in a cantonment in this country, he expects his discharge in the near future. He is a big, powerful youngster with a fine throwing arm, and more real baseball sense than generally is found in a "busher," and ranked among the leading hitters in the International last season. As Bill Rariden has announced his retirement from the game, it is certain that the Giants will make a determined effort to corral Smith.

The annual meeting of the National Baseball Federation, the premier sandlot baseball organization, is to be held at Cleveland, O., Jan. 18. The executive committee is to meet Jan. 17.

Aside from the election of officers, the convention is to concern itself with new plans for the future now that the war has come to an end and the boys are arriving home. If the federation is to measure up to its opportunities for the establishment and promotion of sandlot baseball on a high plane through the United States, it must give serious consideration to plans for the conduct of its affairs in a manner never before attempted.

Capt. Harry McCormick, famed as a Giant pinch hitter of a few seasons ago, who went through a year of fighting in France, suffered from shell shock and was sent back to this country and detailed as an instructor in a training camp in California, is in New York again. Capt. McCormick, who, by the way, earned his promotion from the rank of lieutenant by his excellent work on the battlefield, will be mustered out of the service within the next week or so. He says he has no intention of returning to baseball, and adds: "You can't fool the people all the time!"

Without taking into consideration deals that John McGraw may decide to make before next season opens the Giants, on paper, present a formidable lineup. Burns, Kauff and Young will return to the outfield. Holke, Doyle, Fletcher and Zimmerman still are the regular infielders. The pitchers include Benton, Barnes, Perrit, Toney, Schupp, Steele, Sallee, George Smith, Anderson

The discussion ranged from the freedom of the seas, the league of nations and the attendant proposition of the reduction of armaments.

Downing Street Thronged

It was 1:40 o'clock when the president drove up to No. 10 Downing street. He was given an enthusiastic greeting from the crowd. Downing street was thronged with many people, having waited patiently two hours for an opportunity to see and cheer the president.

Of the luncheon guests, including representatives of all parties, the Earl of Reading was the first to arrive. He was followed by former Premier Asquith, the Marquis of Crewe, John W. Davis, the American ambassador. Earl Curson and Viscount Bryce. The premier himself, who was detained at the conference in Buckingham palace, came next and after him Arthur Henderson, labor leader, Andrew Bonar Law, and William Adamson, labor member of parliament.

Premier Lloyd George and Sec. Balfour were cheered by the crowd, but it was evident that it was Pres. Wilson they were waiting for. As soon as his car reached the outskirts of the crowd in Whitehall and turned into Downing street, a great cheer was raised. Through the lane of people the car rapidly drew up at No. 10, about a hundred yards up Downing street. Rear Admiral Grayson, who escorted the president, stepped out and was followed by the president himself.

People Swarm About Car

Frantically cheering the crowd surged by the police right up to the entrance of the house swarming about the president's car. The crowd cried for a speech but the president, smiling and waving his hand, disappeared into the house.

The entrance room was decorated with palms and red and white flowers. Although it rained during the morning the gggay skies withheld their contents during the president's drive from the palace.

From the public buildings in Whitehall and from the foreign office and No. 10 the Stars and Stripes and the Union Jack waved together.

Washington's Picture Unveiled.

The luncheon given by Premier Lloyd George gave President Wilson an opportunity of meeting various government officials and party leaders. It was a purely informal party which later broke up into groups who strolled into the library where they chatted and joked. When the dining room was cleared, Premier Lloyd George returned to it with his guests to receive from the Earl and Countess of Albemarle a copy of the portrait of George Washington painted by Peale in 1783. The copy was presented to the prime minister. The original is in the United States senate.

The object of the presentation was to commemorate the entry of the United States into the present war. The portrait was unveiled by Pres. Wilson. There were no formalities and no speeches. To a representative of the Associated Press who witnessed the unveiling, Premier Lloyd George pointed out the pictures of Burke and Fox on another wall of the room, saying that the room needed only a picture of Pitt to make complete the group of men who opposed the revolutionary war.

Wilson Tells Jokes.

The president and other members of the party made a critical examination of the picture which led to a discussion of art. The conversation then drifted to other topics with the president as the center of a laughing group. The president began to tell stories.

The Earl and Countess of Albemarle and the other guests departed after the party returned to the drawing room, leaving the president alone with Premier Lloyd George and Sec. Balfour. The three men went into conference to discuss various problems confronting the peace congress.

As the afternoon wore on the crowd waiting on Downing street for the president to emerge increased.

"I wonder if we can get a speech out of him," and "he is sure to say something," were the comments of members of the throng.

LONDON— Except that no member of the royal family will be present, the procession tomorrow to the Guild hall where Pres. Wilson will receive an address of welcome from the city corporation will be on the same scale as that from Charing Cross station to Buckingham Palace yesterday.

There will be three carriages, all of them semi-state landaus each drawn by four bay horses. The sovereign's escore of household cavalry will ride in attendance on the carriage of the president. One standard indicating the presence of a chief of state will be carried. The attendants on the carriages and the outriders will be in scarlet livery.

In the first carriage will be the president, Mrs. Wilson and Lord Chesterfield, grand master of equerries. Ambassador Davis, Mrs. Davis, Maj. Gen. Biddle and Lord Herschell will be in the second carriage while the third will be occupied by Rear Admiral Grayson, Brig. Gen. Harts and Sir Charles Cust.

CITY STILL BEHIND IN RED CROSS ROLL

Time for Affiliating With Relief Organization Grows Short

The time for enrolling in the Red Cross grows shorter, and the city and county are not yet within easy striking distance of their mark. Madison has taken out about 7,900 memberships thus far, as against more than 12,000 last year. The rural districts are working hard to overcome the handicap of delayed campaigning incident to disease outbreaks, bad roads, and weather conditions.

Returns in this city are coming in slowly. Everyone who has not yet enrolled is urged in the strongest manner to do so Saturday. The dollar membership fee may be paid at the Association of Commerce rooms, or to solicitors. These workers are still circulating from house to house and among business and industrial places.

On Sept. 26, 1918, 28,000 nurses were enrolled with the Red Cross. Twenty-five thousand more nurses will be wanted by July, 1919. The Red Cross home service committees are scattered throughout the country. More than 1,000,000 people, families and dependents of soldiers, have been helped by these committees since the war began. It has cost $400,000 a month to keep up home service.

FUR TRIMMED GOWN LOOKS LIKE SUIT

This smart afternoon gown, which cannot conceal the fact that it is a Paris inspiration, has every appearance of a suit with its soft taupe fox collar, cuffs and skirt bands. Beige velour fashions the skirt and bodice with a straight satin panel from the low neck to the top row of fur on the skirt. Satin covered buttons edge both sides of the panel. The hat is a model worthy of note, being made of the same material as the gown and absolutely devoid of trimming.

MARKETS

NEW YORK — Short covering became more urgent during the morning stock market dealing, even the local utilities profiting by this movement. St. Paul, Pennsylvania, Delaware and Hudson and New Haven were the only rails to show heaviness. Reading, Pacific, Atchison and Lackawanna gained 1 to 3 points. Further advances were made by oils, coppers and leathers, and motors also strengthened but the most notable feature was United Fruit which increased its gain to 7 points. Heavy selling of liberty bonds continued, the fourth 4¼s falling to the new low record of 94.24.

Gains of 1 to 3 points in rails, shippings, coppers, oils and utilities at the outset today were regarded as a logical reversal from the excessive bearishness of yesterday. The strongest features included Southern Pacific, Chicago and Northwestern, United Fruit, Mexican petroleum, Texas company, American smelting, hide and leather preferred and Brooklyn transit. United States steel was the only backward feature, yielding a fraction. Free offerings of liberty fourth 4¼s at quotations approximating their minimum was the feature of the bond market.

United States steel and affiliated equipments rallied at midday and other shippings were lifted by the strength of United fruit, but rails developed an uncertain tone and utilities weakened. Twin city transit lost 3¼ points and Adams express 4¾.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO—Fresh advances in the corn market today resulted from scantiness of offerings and from the fact that receipts were even more meagre than has recently been the case. Unsettled weather that pointed to further restrictions of the crop movement operated as an additional bullish factor. Commission houses though, were moderate sellers on the bulges. Opening prices which ranged from ⅜ to 1⅛ cents higher with January 142⅛ to 143 and May 137 to ⅞ were followed by continued upturns.

Oats reflected the strength of corn. Buying however, was of only a scattered sort. After opening ⅛ cents to ¾ cents higher with May 61½ to ¾ the market scored substantial further gains.

Provisions advanced with grain.

NEAR 120 TO ATTEND PEACE MEET

Delegates of 27 Countries Will be Present at Conference

LARGER NATIONS SEND 5

Unofficial Advices Give Personnel of Various Delegations

(By the Associated Press)

PARIS (Dec. 26)—The cession of Spanish Morocco to France in exchange for a cash consideration of one billion francs, the return of Gibraltar to Spain by Great Britain and the abandonment of Ceuta, Morocco, to Great Britain by Spain are being openly discussed.

PARIS (Dec. 26)— The personnel of the peace congress gradually is taking form. A number of main details of composition of the congress are now fairly well settled as a result of conferences. These indicate the total membership will be between 100 and 120. Twenty-seven countries will be represented by delegations, including those which declared war and a number which have come into existence as a result of war.

Great Powers to Send Five

The great powers, notably Great Britain, France, the United States and Italy each have allotted five delegates, while other delegations will vary from one to four according to size and interest of the countries.

Word has been received that the Belgian and Portuguese delegations soon will join the United States representatives who thus far are the only members of the peace congress to arrive. Pres. Wilson's visit to England is likely to result in conveying definitely the view that it is highly desirable that the congress should be put into motion as soon as possible.

Partial List of Delegates

While the personnels of only a few delegations have been announced, unofficial advices indicate that most of them will be formed substantially as follows:

Belgium—Foreign Minister Hymans, A. Vandervelde, minister of justice, Baron Van Den Heuvel, minister to the vatican.

Portugal — E. Moniz, Foreign Minister Santo Lima, F. DeAndrade, S. Viga and A. Vasconcellos, minister of the colonies.

Brazil— M. Pecanha, Foreign Minister R. Barbost, Admiral Bacellar and General Thompowsky.

Japan—Viscount Chinda, ambassador to Great Britain, Baron Matsui, ambassador to France, and two other delegates now on their way.

Serbia to Be Represented

Serbia—N. P. Fachitch, premier, Dr. M. R. Vesnitch and Dr. Cumbitch.

Greece—Premier Venizelos and M. Politis, foreign minister.

Italy—Premier Orlando, Baron Sonnino, foreign minister, L. Bissolati-Berganaschi, minister of military aid and war pensions, General Diaz, commander of the Italian army, Admiral Di Revel.

Great Britain — David Lloyd George, prime minister, Arthur J. Balfour, foreign secretary, Andrew Bonar Law, chancellor of the exchequer, G. N. Barnes, labor member of the war cabinet, and one other delegate, Lieutenant General Smuts and General Botha, representing South Africa, are expected to accompany the British delegation in which probably also will be representatives of Canada, Australia and India.

FATHER'S DEATH DESCRIBED BY MISS BRANEGAN

Daughter Testifies as to Defective Road in Suit Against Verona

Miss Gladys Branegan, appearing in superior court, Thursday, in a suit she is bringing against the town of Verona, told how her father, Robert Branegan, met his death a year ago last summer. Miss Branegan testified that he was driving his car slowly and carefully on the opposite side of the road from a big depression, but that the machine was thrown off the road by this defect and that her father was killed as a result of the accident. She is suing the town for $5,000 damages.

Herman J. Mosser, a photographer for the Photoart house, was another witness at the trial. He had taken a picture of the spot at which Mr. Branegan's death occurred. He testified that later the road had been gravelled over in an attempt to get rid of the danger spot.

The trial was continued at 9:30 this morning.

Protective League Disbands; Had Three Million Probes

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Dissolution of the American Protective league, with its membership of 250,000 and branch organizations in nearly every city and town in the country, effective Feb. 1, was announced today by the directors.

Attorney General Gregory, shortly after the armistice was signed, asked that the organization, which was formed shortly after relations were severed with Germany, and which the attorney general said "has performer a great task," continue its activities during the period of readjustment.

With the coming of peace, the statement declares, there "is no place for organized citizen espionage." Men who devoted much time and effort to the purposes of the league now desire to retire.

Treves, where Wilson will spend Christmas with American army of occupation.

President Wilson has passed up innumerable invitations to spend Christmas with kings and other notables abroad and will spend the day and eat Christmas dinner with the American soldiers in the field. According to announced plans he will leave Paris Christmas eve and go to Treves, the headquartres of the American army of occupation. It is made plain that Wilson will eat with the men in the ranks and not the officers. Treves is on the east bank of the Moselle river about fifty-five miles southwest of Coblenz. to an appeal by the government, shall retire and leave the capital under the protection of two volunteer policing organizations which are dominated by the extremists.

The sailors, against whom the soldiers have been antagonistic, are known to be under the special leadership of Georg eLdebour, who was one of the representatives of the sailors in the negotiations with the Ebert-Haase government.

The sailors agree not to participate in any future revolt against the government.

The settlement between the sailors and the government does not satisfy the Vorwaerts, which expresses the hope that they will subordinate themselves to the government and show themselves good republican soldiers.

Theodore Wolff, in the Tageblatt, thinks that the government's capitulation leaves the impression that it is steering a rudderless course. The removal of the troops under Gen. Lequis, he says, may be interpreted as the temporary elimination of the only agency of law and order on which the Berlin Bourgeoise has set its hope.

LONDON—"We shan't have peace here until English and American troops come to keep order," is a statement attributed to one of the riotous German sailors in Berlin by the correspondent of the Daily Express at the German capital. The correspondent says he talked with a dozen other of the men who expressed themselves similarly to the first speaker, some of them adding "Don't let them send the French or there will be more fighting."

The correspondent adds that all of the lower classes of Berlin are willing to see foreign troops in the capital, feeling that they have nothing to lose and perhaps something to gain by the presence of outsiders.

The correspondent considers one of the most disquieting factors of the situation the part played by the sailors wives and sweethearts, some of whom paricipated in the fighting.

Still Control Vorwaerts.

(By the Associated Press)

BERLIN (Thursday.)—The Spartacus faction still was in control late this afternoon of the offices of the socialist newspaper, Vorwaerts, which was forcibly taken possession of by members of the group, Wednesday night.

Chief of Police Eichhorn had promised the editors of the newspaper that the invaders of the plant would be ejected by 6 o'clock this evening in order to make possible the publication of Friday's issue by the regular staff.

The seizure of the newspaper was suggested during the demonstration at the palace, Wednesday. Volunteer compositors responded to a call for skilled men and several of these started up the linotype machines. Spartican writers provided copy for handbills which were issued under the caption "Red Vorwaerts."

Frederick Stampfer, editor of Vorwaerts, demanded that the government take prompt action to replace the newspaper.

Cause of Fighting.

BERLIN (Tuesday)—The cause of the fighting between sailors and soldiers and the republican guard in Berlin yesterday and today was the decision of Otto Wels, military commander, to disband and pay off the greater number of naval reservists who had been doing guard duty at revolutionary headquarters since the outbreak of the revolution.

Opposition to the continued presence of the sailors grew with the return of soldiers from the front and Wels finally announced that all but 600 of the 2,000 sailors would be paid off and discharged.

The controversy reached a climax when a delegation of sailors marched to the headquarters of Wels to protest against his alleged hostile attitude. Wels summoned the republican guard, which opened fire on the sailors with machine guns as soon as it arrived.

The sailors then attacked the headquarters and captured Wels and his aides. They were detained in a palace but were released ultimately.

ARMY POLITICS TO BE AIRED

Plan to Confer Titles on Leaders May Bring Discussion

WASHINGTON, D. C. —Opposition began to brew in congress today against legislation recommended by the war department to confer the rank of general and lieutenant general for life upon those now holding those grades temporarily.

The proposed legislation affects Gen. Pershings, Gen. March, Gen. Bliss, Lieut. Gen. Liggett, and Lieut. Gen. Bullard. They are holding their present ranks only temporarily and the purpose of the proposed legislation is to extend to them recognition for their services during the war.

There were indications today that the measure may become the vehicle for the airing of army politics kept well under cover during the war. It was suggested that it might furnish an opportunity for bringing out the facts about the keeping of Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood at home and the reason for the mysterious recall of Maj. Gen. Clarence Edwards while under fire with his division at the front.

There are many other high army officers, held in esteem in congress, who are smarting over the treatment they have received during the war and their cases may be held before the spotlight when the measure comes up in the house or senate.
